The firm was founded in 2017 by Rupert Candy, an attorney with more than 10 years experience in commercial litigation, and dispute resolution.

2017

Prior to starting the firm, Rupert was a senior attorney in the dispute resolution practice of Webber Wentzel (in alliance with Linklaters), a leading South African law firm.

Rupert is currently the only director and heads up the firm, and is ably assisted by professional and support staff.

Despite being a new player in the market, the firm has been able to sign up key clients in both the private and public sectors.

History and experience

The practice has vast experience in commercial litigation, including insurance litigation, general litigation and medical malpractice.

Furthermore, it has substantial experience in personal injury law, as well as Municipal / State liability.

The practice also has experience in constitutional law, particularly in matters concerning the implementation of the Bill of Rights. In this regard, the practice does its fair share of public interest law, on a pro-bono basis, including for clients such as the Nelson Mandela Foundation and the Right2Know Campaign.

Furthermore, it also practices privacy law, defamation, and media law. It is experienced and currently has matters before the Press Council of South Africa, both with the Press Ombudsman, and the Press Appeals Panel.

The firm also practises commercial dispute resolution and litigation, including banking recoveries litigation, and matters relating to the National Credit Act, No. 34 of 2005.

Rupert has acted for 3 of the "big 4" in specialised banking litigation matters.

He has also advised clients across a range of industries including the banking and telecommunications industries.

Rupert has acted for 2 major international insurers/professional indemnity organizations, defending various medical practitioners in the Gauteng region.

History and experience continued

Prior to establishing the practice, Rupert spent 5 years as a senior attorney in the insurance and dispute resolution practice of Webber Wentzel, one of the top corporate law firms in South Africa. Here, Rupert honed his skills by acting for both local and international underwriters and brokers, defending public liability claims; professional indemnity claims against attorneys and auditors; business interruption claims, medical negligence claims, etc.

Prior to that he practiced at 2 boutique law firms in Sandton, specialising in banking recoveries litigation.

Rupert also had a stint in the corporate world, as Legal Consultant for a major telecommunications company.

Prior to that, he served as a candidate attorney at Woodhead Bigby Inc. a well established, prestigious law firm in La Lucia, Durban.

Rupert is a member of the Law Society of the Northern Provinces ("LSNP"). He is also a member of the Durban High School (DHS) Foundation.

Rupert attended Durban High School (DHS) and later obtained an LLB degree from the University of KwaZulu-Natal (Howard College Campus, Durban), as well as a postgraduate certificate: Medical Law, from the University of Pretoria. In 2016, he also obtained a Certificate in Sports Law from the University of Pretoria (with distinction).

The firm also practices sports law, and represents athletes, unions and clubs, including, arguably the most supported football club in South Africa, Kaizer Chiefs Football Club.

In terms of South Africa's transformation laws, the practice is also classified as 100% Black-owned.
